

PUBLIC HEALTH CONSULTANT

Taylor M. John, MPH

MEDIA KIT

TAYLORMADISONCONSULTING.COM

50+

TALKS + TRAININGS
DELIVERED

10

PARTNERS IN U.S.
STATES

5K

PODCAST
DOWNLOADS

ABOUT TAYLOR

Taylor M. John, MPH is a trauma-informed public health strategist working at the intersections of maternal health equity, survivor support, and systems transformation. Drawing on lived experience and a strong public health foundation, Taylor helps institutions design safer, more equitable environments for birthing people, survivors, and frontline staff.

As an impactful keynoter and consultant, Taylor blends story, data, and strategy to make complex issues deeply human and actionable. Whether speaking to clinicians, community organizations, or academic audiences, Taylor creates brave, grounded spaces where people can reflect, learn, and move toward meaningful change.

TAYLOR Madison
CONSULTING

SIGNATURE TOPICS

Building Maternal Health Equity through Trauma-Informed Design

Explore how trauma-informed principles can reshape maternal health programs, policies, and patient experiences. Taylor shares frameworks for centering lived experience, reducing harm, and making care more just and accessible.

Birth Justice & Reproductive Freedom: A Public Health Lens

This keynote connects reproductive justice, public health, and systems change. Audiences learn how to identify structural barriers, advocate for policy shifts, and support birthing people with dignity and autonomy at the center.

Health Literacy as Healing: Navigating Complex Care Systems

Taylor breaks down how confusing systems and medical language can deepen harm—and how health literacy can be a tool for healing. Participants leave with concrete ways to communicate more clearly, build trust, and honor community wisdom.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Audiences leave with:

- A clear understanding of trauma-informed principles and how they apply to maternal and sexual health.
- Practical strategies for centering lived experience in programs, policies, and communication.
- Tools for identifying and addressing structural barriers that create inequities in care.
- Language and frameworks to support survivor-centered, culturally responsive practice.
- Next steps to move from insight to sustainable, equity-driven action in their own settings.

Ideal Audiences & Formats:

- Hospitals, health systems, and perinatal care teams
- Public health departments and community health centers
- Survivor-serving organizations and advocacy groups
- Universities, training programs, and professional associations
- Conferences focused on maternal health, trauma, equity, or public health

Formats Offered

- Keynote talks (virtual or in-person)
- Interactive workshops and trainings
- Panel discussions and fireside chats
- Strategy sessions and retreats (in partnership with consulting services)

TAYLOR'S WORK IS CREATED FOR

- Healthcare + Clinical teams
- Public Health + Community Organizations
- Academic + Training Institutions
- Events + Conferences

LOGISTICS & BOOKING AVAILABILITY

- Virtual and in-person speaking
- Travels from: New York
- Honorarium: Available upon request; custom packages for keynotes + workshops

SERVICES OFFERED

- Keynote Speaking
- Workshops and Trainings
- Panels + Fireside Chats
- Strategy + Consultation Add Ons
- Podcast Appearances

READY TO BOOK TAYLOR FOR YOUR EVENT?

Ready to book Taylor for your event?

Visit: Booking Calendar

Email: hello@taylormadisonconsulting.com

You can also learn more via:

- Speaking page: Speaking
- Podcast & media: taytalks

Taylor M. John, MPH

TAYLORMADISONCONSULTING.COM